By Dar, Sounds Great!! Yes I recommend this book.By Dar or RPLThis book has been out for a while I would imagine , however people still must make cupcakes. For schools , Churches and all their fundraisers, craft shows and picnics, the list is endless. When my kids were small I always made the cupcakes in the cones for ice cream, I figured it was a lot easier for little hands, and also, it was different for its time, and, it was not something everyone in the class would be bringing in as a treat. There are many different kinds of icing in this book, that I have never heard of that you can use on cakes,as well as cupcakes. I thought it would be interesting to use some cupcake recipes, and, try to make cakes, using the recipes, might take a time or two, to, get the recipe right, but it would be fun to do, and, who knows you may have a new favorite desert. There are muffins and mini cheesecake recipes, which have been out for sometime now, and there are a lot of different things to do, that would make them your own. I have not made anything yet, and, I will just as soon as I figure out just which recipe to choose, as I see what could become quite a few favorites, the only problem is that there are just the two of us now to finish off what I make. And just a word of advice, a good idea and a healthier one, is to use either applesauce, or, instant pudding instead of oil. Both work great, I use the applesauce and you can't taste it at all. So have fun, and good luck, and also five cups of tea to the Author!
