From 33 Books Co. : 33 Bottles of Beer before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 33 Bottles of Beer:

It's about the size of a passport, and can easily fit in a pocket or purse. I was surprised by the sturdiness of the paper, and haven't had any issues with bleed through using a regular ball point pen. Many beer journals go into too much detail for me, asking for specifics that I'm just not interested in. This journal simplifies the usual format, making for a fun travel log that I can bring along to remember my impressions of tastings. The notes section is just long enough for me to write a few sentences about what I thought, and I like the graphic representation of a beer's values. Overall, I'm pleased with the purchase, and would definitely buy again, for me and for friends!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Love itBy JoEveryone laughed and thought it was a fun idea. It's a good size for carrying around if you're into filling this out (which I mean, it's so fun so why not??). Love that it's made in Oregon! ??1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. I love these little booksBy Val MI purchased this for my boss for Christmas. I love these little books. They are the perfect size for taking with you when you are out. He never said thank you or mentioned it at all, so I have no idea if he liked it or not. Go figure.

Born from attending a few too many beer festivals, 33 Beers is a beer journal that provides an easy way to record tasting notes in a small, convenient notebook format. It's designed for beer geeks, by beer geeks. This beer journal is designed for ease of use. It's tough to hold a notepad in one hand, a pencil in the other, and have another hand left for beer. Taking notes with 33 Beers is as simple as checking a few boxes and entering a few basic facts. A teeny, tiny amount of real beer is added to the ink in each new edition, which is cryptically noted on the back. 33 Beers is made with 100% recycled papers sourced in the Pacific Northwest. Interior pages are 100% post-consumer recycled content and covers are 85% post-consumer recycled content and 15% recycled content. The booklets are printed using US-grown soy-based inks in sunny Portland, Oregon.
