I haven't tried all of the recipes yet, but the ones I have do not take an entire afternoon to prepare. I am not sure who did the photography in this book, but it is amazing. I will be giving this as a gift this holiday season to all the desert junkies in my life. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. I needed an idea starter and this book helped me out of my brownie blues.

They are absolutely divine and I only recommend making them if you've got somewhere to take them - otherwise you may find yourself huddled in the pantry corner eating the entire batch (they are THAT good!). What I liked about them specifically is that they stayed puffy even after cooled (I don't like flat cookies). They were perfectly soft. Perfectly chewy. Perfectly fudgy (I used Betty Crocker's Supreme Triple Chunk Brownie Mix). Also, I LOVED that there were equal amounts of chocolate cookie dough and brownie cookie dough, so in the end I had just enough of both to make the entire batch of Brookies. Excellent book and definitely a great one to have on hand - everyone keeps brownie mixes in their cupboard, now you have 50 more options to make other than just a pan of boring brownies! --I was pleasantly surprised to see such a wide variety of recipes in the book. I was ready for 50 ways to make regular brownies but the author really showed some great out of the box ideas like milkshakes, bars, ice cream, and candy bark. We tried the mug brownies during an emergency sweet craving and loved that we had a warm dessert ready in under five minutes. Make sure you buy brownie mixes in bulk because you are going to want to try every single recipe. --About the Author Aimee is half of the blog Like Mother, Like Daughter, a blog she started with her mother to share some of their favorite recipes. Aimee wanted her mother to have a place to write down the family favorite recipes she had grown up with as well as a place to record the recipe successes they both had in the kitchen when trying new things. She is also a wife and a mother to the cutest 6 month old boy. She graduated from BYU in 2010 with a degree in linguistics. Aimee likes to run, craft, camp and of course cook/bake in her spare time.
