Nancy, Chih Ma, etc. : Don't Lick the Chopsticks before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Don't Lick the Chopsticks:

Don't Lick the Chopsticks: The Creative, Harmonious Ma Family Chinese Cookbook From the front flap: "From Mrs. Ma, famed internationally as an expert on Chinese food, comes an array of Pekinese dishes - rich, festive, well-seasoned dishes of the ancient capital. Her daughter-in-law Irene is a native of Swatow and offers the Western cook, for the first time, recipes from this port city, which emphasize freshness, lightness, purity of flavor, and delight in the harvest of the sea. Daughter Mary has blended the traditions of East and West to create many of her own unique dishes adaptable to any kitchen - even a Chinese-inspired sauerkraut to delight her German husband. And, finally, youngest daughter Helen grabs the creative spirit with both hands, breaks with tradition and ignores rules, and shows by example how anyone who likes to cook can cook Chinese."
